

CableOrganizer.com, Inc

Wire management products

OVERALL RATING: ★★

The extensive (and extended) CableOrganizer homepage hits you with a barrage of links and images celebrating different products and deals. The anchor of organizational sanity is the left nav. With so many products and product types, from so many companies, it's understandable that the designers would head down what at first seems to be a busy path. Give it a chance; it's highly functional and function-packed. For each product there is a decent but not overwhelming amount of detailed information. Instant gratification seekers can shop and complete purchases online. Contact information is prominent, and user comments for each product can be reviewed or written. This catch-all site works well.
